The year 2019 was a year of building for the PMI Educational Foundation (PMIEF). And it is thanks to you—our donors, volunteers and champions—for helping us to achieve incredible progress towards our mutual quest to leverage Project Management for Social Good®.

PMIEF is proud of the blueprint we designed, which allows for an explosive expansion of reach through partnerships moving into the future. Looking back, here’s the bedrock of 2019 accomplishments:

• Reached over 176,175 youth and introduced them to project management;

• Awarded three grants totaling US$2.4 million and reaching 50 countries on six continents with expectations of training more than 1 million youth annually when implementation is complete;

• Awarded over 350 scholarships and awards to students and working professionals around the world;

• Received over 3,000 donations from individuals across 25 countries;

• Improved PMIEF’s effectiveness and visibility through a rebranding initiative.

As we progress through 2020 and look forward to celebrating our 30th anniversary, we’re excited to see how our transition is helping to transform the lives of youth. This year is not only commemorative, but notable, as we use our laser-focused direction to reach youth around the globe in a much more expansive way of Powering The Project Economy™.

Thank you again for serving as one of PMIEF’s cornerstones. Please enjoy reading about all that was constructed in 2019 and know that we look forward to sharing and connecting with you for many years to come.

For nearly 30 years, PMIEF has helped put youth on the path to success by incorporating project management skills into their daily lives. In fact, we have now narrowed our strategic focus even more in order to make a greater impact and provide increased value to young people around the world by working through the nonprofits that directly serve them.

This transformation also includes a new visual identity; one that incorporates PMIEF’s building blocks of Powering The Project Economy™ (philanthropy, collaboration and community). Each of these qualities is represented with a unique symbol using bright colors which will be embedded in our communications over time, reinforcing their meaning.

PMIEF supports Powering The Project Economy™ by strengthening society through project management-driven social good efforts and focusing on preparing today’s youth to become tomorrow’s global leaders.

Philanthropy
Making dreams a reality takes more than a vision—it takes action and dedication. We nurture and inspire the next generation to learn, grow and achieve their goals so that they too can benefit society. This continued commitment and passion enables us to contribute to the welfare of our youth and their communities. Exclusive to PMIEF.

Collaboration
We can’t do it alone. Whether it’s partnering with a colleague, client, company or nonprofit organization, each of us brings something unique to the table. And we are made stronger when we work together.

Community
The people that are part of our world make it what it is today. Our community is one of our most valuable assets. We celebrate it and keep it going by welcoming all who wish to join us to make the world a better place.
Building Community through Partnership

PMIEF executes our strategy through nonprofits around the world that engage young people ages 5 to 19 in highly experiential, project-oriented activities. The foundation helps these organizations integrate project management into their youth programming so participants strengthen skills like problem solving, critical thinking and creativity. In addition, PMIEF provides project management fundamentals training and coaching to the staff of these nonprofits to build organizational capacity.

In 2019, PMIEF invested US$2.4 million in three of the world’s leading nonprofits to enhance their reach and impact.

F1 in Schools™ (F1iS)
F1iS delivers a global science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) competition that challenges youth in 26,000 schools to create the fastest, miniature, compressed air-powered racecar they can using Formula 1® (F1) model block and computer aided design/manufacturing software. Over PMIEF’s three-year partnership with F1iS, the nonprofit will more deeply integrate project management into its competition handbook that inspires more than 1 million young people each year to practically apply classroom lessons in aerodynamics, physics, design, manufacturing, marketing and branding.

“We’re delighted to welcome PMIEF as a partner of F1 in Schools, and look forward to a long and successful relationship. Project management is fundamental in our challenge as the students have limited time and resources for taking their F1 in Schools entry from concept to reality, and I’m sure that PMIEF will be able to assist our students with this process.”
— Andrew Denford, Founder and Chairman
Junior Achievement Africa (JA Africa)

JA Africa ensures youth acquire and apply the competencies necessary to launch their own business, succeed in today’s global economy and make prudent financial decisions. The foundation’s four-year partnership with this organization will integrate project management into the JA Company Program®, an entrepreneurship competition that empowers young people to either solve a problem or fulfill an unmet need in their community as they design, execute, manage, market and monitor their own microenterprise. Approximately 20,000 youth participate in the JA Company Program each year.

“One of our priorities as an organization is to ensure that the content we deliver to young people is continually reviewed and refreshed to make it more work-relevant. Therefore, incorporating the discipline of project management into our flagship program will enhance its impact. We are proud of this partnership with PMIEF and are looking forward to working together toward improving learning outcomes for young Africans.” – Elizabeth Elango Bintliff, CEO

Special Olympics, Inc. (SOI)

SOI encourages inclusion with the aim of eradicating discrimination against people with intellectual disabilities. Through a three-year partnership with PMIEF, this nonprofit will create an interactive e-learning platform to help youth learn project management, establish a project management track for its youth leadership summits and award Youth Innovation Grants that fund young people’s design and execution of social good projects around the world. Together, PMIEF and SOI will reach approximately 10,000 youth across 40 countries.

“With the support of PMIEF, Special Olympics youth leaders will be even better equipped to lead projects in their communities with more confidence, enthusiasm and proficiency than ever before. I am excited for our youth leaders around the world to gain an understanding of project management principles to make their projects come to life. The opportunity to gain hands-on experience creating smart work plans will help them get to the finish line faster. Understanding project management and how it increases impact is a skill they will use for their entire careers.” – Mary Davis, CEO
Building the Profession through Scholarships and Awards

PMIEF works to help fortify the project management profession through academic and professional development scholarships. Thanks to the generosity of PMI, PMI members, PMI Chapters, PMI REPs and universities, PMIEF was able to buttress the PM community and tomorrow’s future leaders through more than 350 project management-related scholarships. The 2019 recipients include university students, practitioners and nonprofit/NGO staff around the world. To see a list of these charitable donors, please see pages 15–16.

Awards

Student and professional award recipients are honored for significant contributions to the project management profession. These include project management initiatives and innovation, scholarly research and the practical application of project management skills both inside and outside the workplace.

Generating a Global Impact

PMI Delaware Valley Chapter
The PMI Delaware Valley Chapter partnered with their local Boy Scout Troop to help youth complete their Eagle Scout Service Project. Using PMIEF’s free resource—Managing Life’s Projects—originally developed by the PMI Delaware Valley Chapter, the volunteers trained 11 scouts in the fundamentals of project management.

PMI Toronto Chapter
PMI Toronto Chapter sent 30 volunteer judges to the Future City Competition. Each team had to clearly communicate their activities in each stage of the project cycle, including how they created their project schedule to how they monitored and controlled their work.

PMI Dominican Republic Chapter
A full day Introduction to Project Management workshop was conducted for 30 adolescents of the San Juan de la Cruz parish by several PMI Dominican Republic Chapter members. The goal was to educate youth on project management and the PMI chapter volunteers leveraged several of the no-cost resources developed by PMIEF such as PM Skills for Life® and The Tower Game.

PMIEF is built upon the notion of encouraging others across the world to give back through project management. PMIEF is proud to inspire philanthropy through close relationships with PMI’s global chapters, administration of awards recognizing pro bono project management contributions to nonprofit organizations, and delivery of grant resources to educational and nonprofit organizations to create a global impact. This is a sampling of the creative ways that project management training is being delivered to people across the map by PMIEF stakeholders.
PMI Queensland Australia Chapter

Hosted its 3rd annual Project Management Day of Service. There were approximately 100 nonprofit organizations and over 400 project managers across eight different locations who united on this day to provide nonprofits a full day of free project management consulting—a donation value of over US$500 thousand.

PMI Pakistan Karachi Chapter

Conducted a Project Based Learning (PBL) Train the Trainer program for 160 Habib Public School faculty members. This program taught them project-based learning, how to facilitate teaching PBL in classrooms and how to incorporate PBL in learning outcomes.

PMI South Africa

Pursued a strategic partnership with Junior Achievement (JA) South Africa. Chapter volunteers served as judges for the one-day Coding and Robotics Innovation Camp (CodR IC), targeting 100 middle-school students in Johannesburg in July 2019. The Innovation Camps are JA’s experiential programs that build the technical (coding, engineering) and soft skills (creativity, design thinking, teamwork, problem solving) of young learners.

PMI Southern Italy Chapter

Four years ago, the PMI Southern Italy Chapter launched the PM Olympic Games. The initiative includes 16 hours of project management training for teachers and students, who then must apply the concepts in the group work on seven project outputs. In 2019, 15 chapter volunteers hosted approximately 30 teachers and 300 students from 13 different schools who participated in the PM Olympic Games.

PMI Chennai Chapter

Collaborated with Avtar, a nonprofit working in the field of economic empowerment of women, located in Southern India. The objective of this partnership was to support young girls to envisage the possibilities of career, scholarship, internships and jobs by helping them to decide career paths. The chapter conducted sessions for 672 girls and 15 teachers from 20+ schools on project management as a life skill under a program named Puthri.

Collaboration is the Foundation to Success

PMIEF believes a little social good can go a long way. The foundation is proud to support global initiatives that teach project management skills to youth to improve their future by Powering the Project Economy™. PMIEF knows when you equip youth with the basics of project management at an early age, they thrive in learning collaboration, community, creativity, communication and critical thinking skills as core building blocks for a brighter future. The following examples showcase how volunteers and chapters are making a difference and exemplifying how we can all use our project management skill set to help today’s youth become tomorrow’s global leaders.

Championing Alaska’s Youth: PMI Alaska Chapter and PMIEF Help Camp Fire Alaska

“Young Alaskans have a tremendous need for project management skills, by virtue of their location,” says Josiane Ballin, PMP, PMIEF’s liaison for PMI Alaska Chapter (PMIAK), PMIAK past president, and vice president of volunteers. “Extreme weather conditions, logistics and supply chains are always an issue for Alaskans” explains Josiane, who works as a project manager for the development of Brazilian steakhouses in the Pacific Northwest.

When Josiane and a team of volunteers presented two 6-hour training courses in May 2018 on behalf of the PMI Alaska Chapter to 40 Alaskan nonprofit organizations (which comprise the second largest industry in Alaska as far as number of jobs), Eva Welch, Executive Assistant, Camp Fire Alaska, Anchorage, heard the central messages.

“We needed help pulling together a registration project for three summer youth programs and our fall before-and after-school programs which spanned three departments,” Eva details, “but we had communication disconnects between departments.” Josiane was delighted to find assistance from PMIEF’s resources.

Josiane asked PMIAK volunteer Melody Khounsavath, to help Eva and her team, emphasizing that “… helping them allows them to be more effective in their work with youth.”

“I worked with youth organizations in the past, so this association really appealed to me,” Melody says. “When Eva detailed that her challenges spanned scheduling, tracking projects, task ownership, and deadline completion, she thought she needed a new system or application. However, Eva had budget constraints, and I knew training and maintenance on a new system would be both difficult and cost prohibitive.”

Melody examined the programs Eva already had available and realized Eva was not taking full advantage of a calendar system already in place. “We were able to set up a master calendar that could be shared with staff members,” says Melody. “The calendar easily tracks projects, sends out task reminders, deadline alerts and more. It is a simple but ideal solution. Even better, it didn’t require any additional money at all.”

Eva agrees, noting “This first-time experience working with PMIEF (resources) and PMIAK was rewarding; they were supportive and patient with our requests and changes.” Josiane saw this as an opportunity to expand the relationship with an outstanding nonprofit agency. PMIEF is actively working with PMI chapters to effectively connect with and empower youth-serving organizations. We are using those relationships as jumping-off points to more direct youth projects. I advocate for that.”

In Alaska, it is essential to be very good at planning and scheduling—both of which are right out of the project management skillset.” Josiane points out the purpose of Project Management for Social Good® promoted by her chapter. “PMIAK volunteers are committed to work in projects with youth-serving nonprofits dedicated to offer Alaskan programs to provide kids with the skillset they need to lead a successful life, such as Camp Fire Alaska. We can all make a big difference here.”
PMIK-UDAAN Program Changes the Lives of Youth in India

At a PMI regional conference, the PMI Trivandrum, Kerala Chapter heard a call for help and decided to respond. In his keynote, Dr. M.R. Rajagopal, MD, a palliative care physician, asked participants to support the education of students who have lost a parent or have a disabled parent for whom they provide palliative care. With guidance from PMIEF, a program called PMIK-UDAAN was formed to provide continuous support to more than 200 families supported by Pallium India.

Explaining the dilemma faced by children with a family member in need of palliative care, Dr. Rajagopal says, “The kids will drop out of school for various reasons. Some of these families are impoverished, and the parents may not be able to function. The children may feel they need to leave school to help support their family, or they may not be able to afford the basics required for going to school.”

S.R. Jayakishore, vice president of education at PMI Trivandrum, Kerala Chapter says, “One of the ways we help students go back to school is by providing them with an educational kit—books, supplies, whatever the school requires. In our first program we supported 180 students—all funded by our chapter members.”

Jayakishore adds, “We have worked with students and analyzed their individual situations. Many of the students were assigned mentors—retired teachers—who worked with them according to their requirements and needs. We have also presented three programs on using project management as a life tool to three public schools. To do this, we use resource material that we get from PMIEF.”

Specifically, they have found “Managing Life’s Projects,” “Project Management Skills for Life®” and “Project Management Toolkit for Youth® Curriculum for 10 to 14-Year-Olds” most helpful. “We teach the student how to break down tasks (which seems at first to be overwhelming) into simple and manageable tasks; the importance of verbal and nonverbal communication; how to manage time and understand the importance of milestones and estimations; the prioritization of skills, especially when there are competing interests; and so much more,” says Jayakishore.

The convergence of Pallium India, PMI volunteers, and PMIEF has become a mutually satisfying partnership, bringing much needed support to youth at risk of losing their opportunity for education. This year, 237 children have received educational support from Pallium India. “We would like to expand our model. Right now we help but a handful of youth compared to the number in need of support; however, with help from PMI volunteers, we can begin to scale up,” says Dr. Rajagopol.

Jayakishore says a memorandum of understanding already in place assures a continuing partnership between PMI Trivandrum, Kerala Chapter and Pallium India. In addition to the educational support for families, the chapter will also support their effort to market products made by palliative care patients, allowing them to earn a better income.

Such life-altering help is also being given to students who are also patients themselves. “Many of these students can function as tech support employees,” comments Dr. Rajagopol. “We try to help them be productive. Even if they do not earn a lot, they can still live with self-respect and a sense of purpose. And that is more important than money.” A sparkle of hope now lights up many lives, thanks to a noble gesture of cooperation between PMI Trivandrum, Kerala Chapter and Pallium India.
