Life Skills Youth Learn Through Project Management

Ever wish there was a way to teach the young people in your life the importance of leadership, teamwork and self-confidence? At PMIEF, we believe teaching them PM skills can do just that. Read this month’s featured article to get started today!
Donor Spotlight: Germán Gutiérrez-Pacheco, PMP

Germán Gutiérrez-Pacheco, PMP®️, has experienced the power of project management throughout his career as an IT systems engineer and manager, but it wasn’t until he took his 7-year-old granddaughter to a PMIEF session on project management and robotics that he saw, first-hand, how easily it could be absorbed by one so young.

Updates from PMIEF

Celebration of Service – You did it!

Exciting news! Thanks to you and your social good efforts, PMI has reached 100% of their 100,000 hours pledged goal in support of the UN Sustainable Development Goals. Thank you for coming together to improve our world. Let’s continue to show the power of PM and see how far we can go. Keep pledging your hours here!

Scholarships

Last Chance to Apply

We can’t believe September is just around the corner! More importantly, it’s your last chance in 2019 to apply to PMIEF’s professional development scholarships. Don’t let this opportunity pass – apply by the 1 September deadline!
“If all of us in project management contribute our own individual gifts, collectively we will enable PMIEF to further a program, develop one, and grow one.” — Connie Figley, PMP®
